ST. AUGUSTINUS. De vita christiana.

F. 1. a. Incipit plogen beati Augustini de vita xriana. Gothic character, 18 unnumbered ff. (the last blank) without signatures [a8, b1o] or catchwords, 28 ll. to the page. Initials in red and blue, and rubricated throughout by a contemporary hand. Small quarto; red levant morocco, gilt line-tooled, inside dentelles gilt, g. e., by Bauzonnet. [Colophon.] F. 17. b. Explicit liber beati augustini de vita xriana. || Hec faciendo quisdz. vita obtinebit eternā. [Schöffer’s device of the two shields, printed in red.] N. p. d. typ. [Mainz, Peter Schöffer, circa 1468.] This copy measures 191 x 135 mm.

Editio Princeps. The type used in this book is that used in the "Rationale" of Duranti, 1459, with the introduction, however, of a rounded lower-case h, which seems to be coincident with Schöffer’s printing on his own account, after the death of Fust in 1466. The volume is very rare and has been collated perfect with Pollard (Br. M. Inc. I, p. 20), Dibdin (Bib. Sp.) and Hain (2093). The latter gives but 17 ff., which is an error.

BURY, RICHARD DE. Philobiblon.

F. 1. a. Incipit plogus in libro de amore libro qui || dicitur. philobiblon. Gothic character, 48 unnumbered ff. without signatures [a-f8] or catchwords, 26 ll. to the page. Initials painted red and rubricated throughout by a contemporary hand. Small quarto; old English straight-grained red morocco, gilt lines and blind-tooling on sides, gilt back, g. e. [Colophon.] 48. a. Explicit. philobiblon. sci. liber Jde amore libroru Colonie ipres Jsus anno dni Mcccc.lxxiij. &c. N. typ. [Printer of “Augustinus de Fide” (Goiswin Gops? ).] This is the Woodhull and Lord Amherst copy with the former’s autograph and date of purchase (Nov. 9th, 1802) on the fly-leaf. The copy is a very fine one, measuring 188 x 130 mm.

Editio Princeps of this renowned work which was intended to serve as a hand-book to librarians. The author, who had been tutor to King Edward III and was afterwards made Bishop of Durham, was a great collector, and at his death left his library to Durham College at Oxford. The “Philobiblon” is the first treatise written about book-collecting. There were but three dated books issued from this press. The Spire edition of 1483 was long considered the Editio Princeps, and the present edition was apparently unknown to Mattaire, Clement, and Panzer. It has been collated perfectly with Hain-Copinger (4151), Dibdin (Bib. Sp.) who describes it very fully, and Pollard (Br. M. Inc. 1, p. 232).

Large folio; old stiff vellum binding. Copy measures 457 x 315 mm. and is very tall. It is rubricated throughout in a con-|| temporary hand, and has one small and one large initial painted in red, blue, and green on a gold background. Ex-|| libris Lord Amherst of Hackney, with his book-plate. Editio Princeps of this interesting work which, while not rare, is of great bibliographical importance. Dibdin [Bib. Sp.] gives a very detailed description of the book and its woodcuts. These according to Dibdin number 2250, but Sydney Cockerell ["Some German Woodcuts of the Fifteenth Century"] states that they number 1809 printed from 645 different blocks. Consequently different towns, emperors, popes, etc., are often represented by the same cut. The four full-page religious cuts are very fine. Michael Wolgemut, one of the illustrators, was the master of Albrecht Dürer. In this copy the portrait and account of Pope Joan are not mutilated. Collated perfeQi with Dibdin (Bib. Sp. III, p. 255), Pollard (Cat. Br. Museum Inc. II, p. 437), and Hain (14508).

N. p. [Venice.]

Fifth edition of Dante and the first with a commentary. This edition is very important as it contains the famous life of Dante written by Boccaccio and here published for the first time. Dibdin (Bib. Sp.) speaks of an edition supposed to have been published by Zarotus at Milan in 1473, and containing this same commentary by Benvenuto da Imola, but disproves the existence of that edition. This copy has been collated perfect with Hain-Copinger (5942) although Hain erroneously gives 377 ff., and with Dibdin (Bib. Sp.) Brunet says that the commentary has by some authorities been assigned to Jacopo della Lana.
